ITALY SENDS WAR TROPHIES TO AID IN RELIEF WORK

Exhibition of Unusual Interest Is Opened at Madison Square Garden.

An exhibition that will arouse more than ordinary interest in New York is the one just opened by the Italian Government in the concert hall of Madison Square Garden. Filling the roomy space the most unique and complete collection of war trophies, captured from the Austrians, is presented for the first time.

The exhibition will continue for two weeks, and a modest fee of 25 cents is charged, the total of which goes toward the relief of Italian war sufferers. It is under the personal supervision of Lieut. Riccardo Tuft, Engineer Corps, Italian Army.

Perhaps the most striking section of the display is that of unexploded aerial bombs dropped by enemy aviators and picked up in the city of Venice. These implements of destruction range in size from a large turnip to a small barrel. The latter kind are some four feet in length and weigh 250 pounds. They are filled with thirty pounds of high explosive.

The incendiary bombs are peculiarly shaped and vary in size. Some are filled with gasoline, others containing tar or a product of it wrapped with inflammable material, so that when exploded by a small charge of powder fire is thrown in several directions. Venice, now a short distance from the immediate Austrian front, has been continually deluged with these kinds of bombs, and the government estimated that at least 1,500 have fallen in every section of the city, particularly those which house the priceless treasures of antiquity.

Nearby is the barnacle-studded stern of an Austrian submarine, the 11-12, and demolished by a depth bomb in the Adriatic Sea. It lay at the bottom for two years before being raised and brought to America. Aboard it were found a soaked battle flag, stained by the salt water, a machine gun and several one-pounder rapid-fire guns, unexploded torpedoes and mines which it had been laying. The depth bomb which struck it, caving in the side of the submarine, showing the tremendous effect of high explosive.

Another interesting object is all that remains of a 7-ton field piece after being struck by an Australian shell. The mangled pieces of the carriage and barrel are torn and split as if so much scrap-iron and are almost unrecognizable.

The part of the hall devoted to the equipment of the Alpini, who are now defending and holding the line in the high Alps, might well be that of an Arctic explorer. Skis, sleds, uniforms of white fur, stretchers on sleds, snowshoes, goggles, ensembles, mountain lighters, blue, white, uniforms act as perfect camouflage and cannot be seen a short distance away.

Flat machine guns for aeroplanes and the trenches, capable of firing as fast as the Browning gun, and trench mortars of every description make up another novel display of modern war material. The latter are smooth bore and have a short barrel. The shell, filled with high explosive, is shot out by compressed air contained in cylinders on the gun-carriage.

Trench clubs for killing wounded and gassed prisoners are many and of a design that might be taken as belonging to heathenism of the stone age. If placed in a museum and labeled "Prehistoric" it would not take much imagination to appreciate the horrors of war as waged by the enemy who have the barbarities of the past at their finger tips and methods of savages of a bygone age in their war curriculum as they wage it. Spiked clubs of a fashion that would better grace the wrists of those at the carnage and slaughter of the Battle of Chalons, large cylinders of gas held under pressure, flame throwers, every description of machine gun and other part of the large exhibit.

The hall is open every day from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night and is reached from the 26th Street entrance.

AMERICAN SINGER, FLEEING GERMANY, TELLS OF HUNGER

Teuton Civilians Starved in Order That Soldiers May Be Fed.

A Scandinavian-American Line steamship which has reached an Atlantic port from Copenhagen via Christiania brought an American woman straight from Germany after six years there; a mother taking her two sons back to Mexico City because they were "on the verge of starvation in Berlin," and more than 500 passengers, among them military attaches and diplomatic agents. Miss Bonaventura Spink of Indianapolis, who for six years has sung in Berlin with the Dresden Opera Company, said that everything went well with Americans until President Wilson's last message.

"Since that reached Germany every American has been the subject of bitter persecution," she said. "Americans are required to report to the police twice a day instead of once as formerly. There are but few Americans left and they are trying to get away, but find it very difficult to obtain passports. I have been trying since the first of March to get home."

"All over Germany the children are being starved, that the soldiers may be fed. All civilians look starved and emaciated. Most of the children are being kept from school because they haven't strength to study. 'The railroads are in bad shape. All leather straps and metal parts, except the wheels, have been taken from the trains. 'Butter is $2.50 a pound in Berlin. Sugar and flour are not to be had at any price. Tea is $10 a pound."

DODGER OF DRAFT KILLS THREE MEN

Wounds Fourth in Fight With Posse—Hurried Away to Escape a Mob.

GRAYSON, Ky., May 27.—Fearing mob violence, the authorities rushed to another town Melvin Collins, twenty-three, of Olive Hill, near here, who killed three men whom he believed had reported him eligible for the military draft.

The men killed are Vini Carpenter, Cleveland Sparks and John Howard. He tried to find another man, to kill him also, but failed.

Collins then fled to a farmhouse, barricaded himself and defied the Sheriff and posse, who surrounded the house and prepared to burn it. Collins fired from a window and wounded Levi Shields in the hip. The Sheriff's officers fired as a man came from the house and wounded Tony Stephens, who had entered the house to persuade Collins to surrender.

Collins surrendered when the officers started to fire the house.
